

Reforms implemented in the field of management in Uzbekistan.

Khurshidbek Dilmurodov Bahodir o'g'li

An employee of the International Affairs Department of the Asia International University, Bukhara, Republic of Uzbekistan

Abstract: After the independence of the Republic of Uzbekistan, large-scale reforms are being implemented in the country's economy and social life. These reforms lead to important changes, especially in the field of management. The reforms implemented in order to increase the country's economic development, competitiveness and create a management system that meets international standards are aimed at strengthening Uzbekistan's place in the global economy.

Key words: management, reforms, new technologies, programs, foreign experiences, public services, communication.

In Uzbekistan, special attention is paid to the improvement of the educational system in the field of management. New management programs are being introduced in higher education institutions. By studying international experiences and applying modern educational methods, it is aimed to train competitive personnel in the future. In order to improve public administration, the government of Uzbekistan is implementing reforms aimed at modernizing the management system in state bodies. In this process, it is important to improve the quality of public services, ensure transparency and establish effective communication with citizens. In order to develop the private sector and create a competitive environment, favorable conditions for doing business are being created in Uzbekistan. It is intended to support business activities, attract investments and help the implementation of innovative ideas through new laws and regulatory legal documents. Development of innovative management is an integral part of Uzbekistan's economic growth strategy.

Startups and technological parks are being established in the country to implement innovative ideas. This will help introduce new technologies and diversify the economy. In order to strengthen Uzbekistan's position in the international arena, the country is expanding cooperation with various international organizations. It is aimed to contribute to the economic development of Uzbekistan through the study of international experiences and the introduction of global management standards. The reforms in the field of management implemented in Uzbekistan have a positive effect on the economic development of the country. By strengthening cooperation between the state and the private sector, supporting innovative ideas and studying international experiences, Uzbekistan strives to create a competitive economy. helps strengthen its position in the global economy. It is aimed to ensure the economic stability of Uzbekistan and increase social well-being through personnel training, development of innovative ideas and expansion of international cooperation in the country.

International cooperation has a number of positive effects on Uzbekistan's management reforms. Through international cooperation, Uzbekistan has the opportunity to learn from the successful experiences of other countries. This is especially important when modernizing management systems and implementing effective management practices. Uzbekistan seeks to increase its experience in cooperation with international organizations and developed countries. In the framework of international cooperation, international trainings, seminars and conferences are held for educational institutions and management specialists of Uzbekistan. It helps to improve personnel skills and learn modern management methods. International cooperation plays an important role in attracting foreign investments to Uzbekistan. Cooperation with international organizations and investors helps to implement new projects and ensure economic growth in the country. This expands the possibilities of implementing innovative ideas in the field of management. Through international cooperation, Uzbekistan has the opportunity to master and introduce innovative technologies. Cooperation with international companies and organizations helps bring new technologies to the country and integrate them into management processes. International cooperation helps to increase the competitiveness of Uzbekistan. As the country integrates with international markets, there is a need to introduce management practices that meet international standards. This serves to strengthen Uzbekistan's position in the global economy. International cooperation helps to ensure political and social stability in Uzbekistan. Cooperation with international organizations is important in implementing programs aimed at developing democratic values and protecting citizens' rights in the country.

International cooperation has a positive effect on Uzbekistan's management reforms. This process will help the country's economic development, increase its competitiveness, and create a management system that meets international standards. It is important to continue international cooperation to strengthen Uzbekistan's position in the global economy and ensure sustainable development.

Conclusion:

The reforms implemented in the field of management in Uzbekistan are aimed at increasing the country's economic development and competitiveness. These reforms will help Uzbekistan take a strong place in the global economy in the future. The changes taking place in the economic and social life of the country serve the stable development of Uzbekistan.

References:

- 1.M. Sharifkho'jayev, Y. Abdullayev, "Management" - Textbook, Tashkent: Teacher-2001.*
- 2.Sh.N.Zaynutdinov, I.U.Murakayev, J.T.Sagdullayev, "Basics of Management"-Darslik, T.: Finance -2001*

3. D.S. Tulaganova, M.A. Akaitdinova, "Sociology and psychology of management", T.: TDIU-2004

4. G'ulomov S. S, Abdullayev Yo., Menejment, T., 2002

5. www.ziyonet.uz